Quest Diagnostics helps our customers to navigate challenges associated with drug testing programs abroad. When dealing with ever-changing factors like cultural barriers and fluctuating global economies, it is critical to have foresight, and more importantly, passion. Our team of international drug testing experts possess that passion. We demonstrate it by working tirelessly to help our customers mitigate the risks of doing business internationally by providing world-class service and support.

We pride ourselves on having an inherently global mindset. We appreciate diversity, respect traditions, and care tremendously about our customers and their business. We love the challenge of bringing we're there when you need us to life, even when “there” is a half a world away.
