As a Fortune 500 company, Quest Diagnostics has a broad impact on our customers, patients, employees, collectors, and shareholders. As it relates to our finances, prudent decision-making enables us to reinvest in our business, to control the costs we pass along to our customers, and to retain talented employees. The finance department supports these goals in part by analyzing our financial data and leveraging that analysis to forecast and strategize for a successful future.

In the finance department, our “we’re there” spirit goes far beyond just opening and closing the books each month. The insights we generate and the decision-making we empower, better position us to deliver industry-leading drug testing at a reasonable price point to the benefit of our customers.
