

Roselyn is there.

“Doing it right means treating each specimen as if it were my own.”

Read more stories at
EmployerSolutions.com/WereThere

The various positions I've held at Quest Diagnostics in the past 13 years have contributed to who I am and how I work today. I believe in going beyond the duties in my job description in an effort to put others' needs ahead of my own.

Every drug test specimen is unique and special. Each represents a life that may change based on the results we provide. Perhaps someone will get a new job, return drug-free to an existing position, or get help to overcome their addiction. Our responsibility is to take the utmost care of each specimen, treating it with attentiveness and compassion. In doing so, we provide accurate, reliable drug test results that give employers peace of mind and empower good decisions. I'm grateful to do my part to bring this to life.

Roselyn Alviar

Group Lead, Specimen Processing
Quest Diagnostics Employer Solutions