Throughout the past 5 years, I have worked closely with the Quest Diagnostics network of collection sites. I witnessed first-hand the intricacies of our logistics, communication, and commitment to quality. That experience left a mark on me as I bonded with people who truly care.

Through our collective efforts, we dedicate ourselves to a larger, long-term mission aimed at helping to deter drug use in the workforce by helping businesses design effective testing programs. This commitment has positioned us as much more than a service provider. We deliver meaningful, thorough insights and are driven by a passion for each other and our clients.
