

Joshua is there.

“We work with pride because what we do makes a difference.”

During my time at Quest Diagnostics, one fact rings true—we take tremendous pride in our work. My shift begins at midnight. Because I am usually the first to arrive, I often tackle some pre-work outside of my official job duties to help pave the way for a successful day of specimen processing. I do this because our clients are always on my mind, and it's in our collective nature to do all that we can for them.

We don't simply process drug testing specimens; we impact employees, workplaces, and families by helping to keep our client's staff and locations safe and drug-free. While the individual roles that we each play are but a small piece of the puzzle, knowing that what we do matters, motivates us to do more and always do our very best.
